JPL CLEANUP SUGGESTIONS

The Jet Propulsion Laboratory is actively seeking community input to an environmental cleanup effort currently underway.

Last year the cleanup of groundwater and soil at the Laboratory came under the oversight of the Environmental Protection Agency when JPL was placed on the EPA's National Priorities List — making JPL, in common language, a "Superfund" site.

Local residents interested in receiving newsletters and fact sheets on the cleanup may call JPL's Public Services Office at (818) 354-0112.
